Catholic Social Teachings and the Signs of the Times

Tuesday, September 15
7:00 pm, via Zoom

The phrase "these are unprecedented times" has become very trite in recent months. Nevertheless, these unprecedented times also provide an invitation to study the Catholic Social Teachings. This presentation will examine the traditional Catholic Social Teachings, their Scriptural roots, and personal applications. Although many of these topics can lead to partisan disagreements, this talk will focus on personal application rather than political platforms.

No cost. For Zoom link, register at

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Psalm 95: If Today You Hear God's Voice

Jesse Manibusan

1. Joyfully sing unto the Lord, let us acclaim the Rock of our salvation. Into the presence of our God come with thanksgiving, joyfully singing psalms.
2. Come let us worship and bow down; O let us kneel before the Lord our maker. We are the people of the Lord, the Lord our shepherd. We are the flock he guides.
3. Harden not your hearts as at Meribah, as in the day of Massah in the desert. There your fathers tempted me, testing me, though they had seen my works.

The Apostles' Creed

I believe in God, the Father almighty, Creator of heaven and earth,
and in Jesus Christ,
his only Son, our Lord,
*who was conceived by the Holy Spirit,
born of the Virgin Mary,*
suffered under Pontius Pilate,
was crucified, died and was buried;
he descended into hell;
on the third day he rose again
from the dead;
he ascended into heaven,
and is seated at the right hand of God
the Father almighty;
from there he will come to judge the
living and the dead.
I believe in the Holy Spirit,
the holy catholic Church,
the communion of saints,
the forgiveness of sins,
the resurrection of the body,
and life everlasting.
Amen.

Refrain

We re - mem - ber how you loved us to your death,
and still we cel - e - brate, for you are with us here;
and we be - lieve that we will see you when you come in your glo - ry, Lord. We re - mem - ber, we cel - e - brate, we be - lieve.

1. Here, a million wounded souls
are yearning just to touch you and be healed;
gather all your people,
and hold them to your heart.
2. Now we recreate your love,
we bring the bread and wine to share a meal:
sign of grace and mercy,
the presence of the Lord.
3. Christ, the Father's great "Amen"
to all the hopes and dreams of every heart,
peace beyond all telling,
and freedom from all fear.
4. See the face of Christ revealed
in every person standing by your side:
gifts to one another,
and temples of your love.

COMMUNION SONGMy Soul Is Thirsting

Michael Joncas

1. Oh God, you are my God whom I seek;
Oh God, you are my God whom I seek;
for you my flesh pines,
my soul thirst like the earth, parched, lifeless, without water.
2. Thus have I gazed toward you in your holy place
to see your power and your glory.
Your kindness is a greater good than life itself;
my lips will glorify you.
3. Thus will I bless you while I live;
Lifting up my hands, I will call upon your name.
As with a banquet shall my soul be satisfied;
with exultant lips my mouth shall praise you.
4. For you have been my help, you have been my help;
in the shadow of your wings I shout for joy.
My soul clings fast to you; your right hand holds me firm;
in the shadow of your wings I sing for joy.

A Gentile or a Tax Collector

It's a curious line, in today's Gospel: "... treat him as you would a Gentile or a tax collector." Brothers and sisters sin against each other with some frequency. What are we to do when sinned against, offended, hurt, or emotionally bleeding? Sometimes people regret their own offenses, often as soon as the transgression takes place. Some do not. What do we do then? Should we just let our hurt lie there, unresolved? Should we make an issue of it? Should we rage against those who cut us? Should we sulk or withdraw in hurt?

The stages Jesus sets before us make profound sense. First, and sensibly, try to resolve things quietly, just between the two of you. Not every good intentioned individual is also sensitive. Some, when they discover their words or actions are hurtful, will be truly repentant. It may take some explanation for them to understand the consequences of what they've done. If there is any good will at all, and there often is, calm explanations will work better here than angry finger pointing, irony or guilt making. This approach of the Lord has the advantage of not shaming the other publicly.

Second, when a quiet conversation fails to work, bring in witnesses, where possible. This can be a necessary stage since some, even those of general good will, fail to listen to people close to them, family or friends. Familiarity can breed deafness as well as contempt. The practice of drawing in two or three witnesses draws upon the requirement of Deut 19:15 and Num 35:30 that, for any serious offense, the testimony of multiple witnesses was required. Having a few others, somewhat more distant, may lead your offending siblings to hear the weight of their actions in a new way.

Third, consult with the church. I'm often drawn into some of the most painful family situations, to listen and provide counsel. Sometimes the distance I have from the situation, and the freedom I have from the deep emotions poisoning people's relationships, provide me with the clarity needed to intercede without heated passions, but with sympathy. I haven't saved every marriage, or resolved every parent/child dispute, but I have been helpful for many.

Then, and only then, when even the intervention of the church fails, comes the curious encouragement to treat the offender as we might "a Gentile or tax collector." In Matthew's world, they were the outsider born in sin, the irredeemable foot soldier of Rome's financial oppression.

Do you have a way of treating Gentiles and tax collectors? I know I don't ... and that may be the very point. I have no expectations of tax collectors. Perhaps the invitation is to address, not the offender, but myself. If I can't change my "brother" then, perhaps, I'm going to have to change myself, my own expectations. If my brother or sister can't or won't turn from what hurts me, do I continue to give them enduring control over my emotions, denying me peace of mind and happiness? As I have no expectations of "Gentiles or tax collectors," perhaps I need to have no expectations of my unrepentant, offending siblings.

The motivation for challenging the sinner is to win "over your brother." Where that isn't possible, we still have to live, hopefully under the shadow of God's blessings. That can't possibly include living in resentment of the sins against us. Consider, is there anyone who has hurt you? Is it time to let go of both the expectations and the hurt, to embrace the peace of mind, even the joy that God intended for you?

Siempre adelante,

Safeguard the Children

Review Your Family Rules and Safety Plans

The start of a new school year is a great time to review your family's rules and go over safety plans for emergencies. Make sure all your children know what to do and who to contact if something is wrong. Go over the phone numbers they can call and what order to call them — 911, a parent's office or cell phone, a trusted neighbor, or a family friend. Discuss where to find these numbers if they forget them. Create a code word that all family members will recognize to mean something is wrong, or someone is in an uncomfortable or dangerous situation. For more ideas, visit lacatholics.org/did-you-know
